

Hutchison Telecom launches Vietnamese operation

Hong Kong, 15 January 2007– Hutchison Telecommunications International Limited (SEHK: 2332, NYSE: HTX; “Hutchison Telecom”) today announced the launch of HT Mobile, Vietnam’s newest nation-wide mobile communications service operator.

HT Mobile operates the leading CDMA2000 1XEV-DO network in Vietnam under the investment licence granted to the co-operation partnership between Hutchison Telecom and Hanoi Telecom Joint Stock Company.

Dennis Lui, chief executive officer of Hutchison Telecom said: “Vietnam is one of the most vibrant and high growth economies in the world. HT Mobile’s launch marks a significant step forward towards Hutchison Telecom’s vision to achieve growth through investment in high potential markets.”

HT Mobile will be providing Vietnamese customers with advanced wireless voice and high-speed multi-media data services, flexible call plans as well as a wide choice of handsets. Today HT Mobile also announced the launch of the first 2.4Mbps wireless data card in Vietnam.

“Vietnam has a young and technology-savvy population. The demand for value-added voice and high-speed multi-media data services is growing exponentially. Leveraging Hutchison Telecom’s experience and resources in global procurement, content development as well as technology deployment, HT Mobile is well-positioned to become one of the fastest growing operators in Vietnam,” concluded Mr Lui.
